America's colleges and universities are the best in the world. They are also the most expensive. Tuition has risen faster than the rate of inflation for the past thirty years. There is no indication that this trend will abate. Ronald G. Ehrenberg explores the causes of this tuition inflation, drawing on his many years as a teacher and researcher of the economics of higher education and as a senior administrator at Cornell University. Using incidents and examples from his own experience, he discusses a wide range of topics including endowment policies, admissions and financial aid policies, the funding of research, tenure and the end of mandatory retirement, information technology, libraries and distance learning, student housing, and intercollegiate athletics. He shows that colleges and universities, having multiple, relatively independent constituencies, suffer from ineffective central control of their costs. And in a fascinating analysis of their response to the ratings published by magazines such as "U.S. News & World Report," he shows how they engage in a dysfunctional competition for students. In the short run, colleges and universities have little need to worry about rising tuitions, since the number of qualified students applying for entrance is rising even faster. But in the long run, it is not at all clear that the increases can be sustained. Ehrenberg concludes by proposing a set of policies to slow the institutions' rising tuitions without damaging their quality.

Includes Part 1, Number 1: Books and Pamphlets, Including Serials and Contributions to Periodicals (January - June)

A tractor repair manual written for the experienced mechanic by professionals in an easy-to-use format , including numerous photos, illustrations and exploded views.

This publication includes two pavement maintenance manuals intended for use by highway maintenance agencies and contracted maintenance firms in the field and in the office. Each is a compendium of good practices for Portland cement concrete joint resealing and partial-depth spall repair, respectively, and stem from two Strategic Highway Research Program studies. The first manual covers the need for joint resealing, the planning and design, construction, and evaluation of joint seal performance. The second manual gives a description of procedures and materials recommended for partial-depth spall repair in jointed Portland cement concrete pavements. The manual covers the details of planning and design, construction, and evaluation of performance.

The FHWA Technical Manual for Design and Construction of Road Tunnels - Civil Elements has been published to provide guidelines and recommendations for planning, design, construction and structural rehabilitation and repair of the civil elements of road tunnels, including cut-and-cover tunnels, mined and bored tunnels, immersed tunnels and jacked box tunnels. The latest edition of the AASHTO LRFD Bridge Design and Construction Specifications are used to the greatest extent applicable in the design examples. This manual focuses primarily on the civil elements of design and construction of road tunnels. It is the intent of FHWA to collaborate with AASHTO to further develop manuals for the design and construction of other key tunnel elements, such as, ventilation, lighting, fire life safety, mechanical, electrical and control systems. FHWA intends to work with road tunnel owners in developing a manual on the maintenance, operation and inspection of road tunnels. This manual is expected to expand on the two currently available FHWA publications: (1) Highway and Rail Transit Tunnel Inspection Manual and (2) Highway and Rail Transit Tunnel Maintenance and Rehabilitation Manual. Black and white print.
